Was Splendid Concert For The New Skating Rink

Amateur Hour and Alice Pace
Review Much Enjoyed

Gordon Memorial Church basement was filled to capacity last Friday night for the entertainment sponsored by the new Skating Rink Committee.

Promptly at 8:30 Mrs. E. L. Stone who acted as chairman opened the program and called on Major Brown in the person of Mr. J. W. Campeau to carry on with the Amateur Hour.

There were 13 contestants all of whom gave very pleasing performances.

The prize winners were as follows: In the Senior Girls' solo, May Martin, First and Jean Palmer, Second. In the Junior Girls' solo—Dolores Turner, first and Bonnie Leppard, second.

Reitations—Shirley Barr first Boys' solo—Jackie Hope, first and Bonnie Leppard, second. Instrumental—Helen O'Beir, first. A special prize was given to Mr. Arnold Hurlbert for his modelling songs which he accompanied on the guitar.

The second part of the program consisted of numbers performed by the pupils of Miss Alice Pace's Dancing Class and also by Miss Pace herself. These were all very well done and were highly entertaining to the audience. The two dances by little Dolores Turner and Shirley Barr were particularly cute and drew much applause. The song and tap dance and also acrobatic dance by Jacqueline McCleary were really well done, and the tap dance by Gordon Hurlbert and Jimmie Dacre reflects much credit upon the boys and their teacher. Little Miss Anderson of Medicine Hat gave the audience many thrills with her acrobatic stunts. And Miss Pace herself gave two very nicely executed numbers.

Miss Broadfoot and Miss Kane acted as judges for the Amateur Contest, and Major Bones himself presented the prizes.

No doubt the Skating Rink has made a very good beginning and are grateful to a those who took part in the program and to the people who so generously supported them by attending in such goodly numbers.

Proposed Marketing Conference, Manitoba

Proposed International Conference to be Held in Winnipeg

Premier John Bracken of Manitoba made a proposal last week that an international conference be held in Winnipeg to consider farm marketing problems. He pointed out that the wheat price was now around 60¢ a bushel, being around 10¢ below the average for the depression years; and the outlook was so serious that something had to be done. He suggested that the United States and European nations be invited to participate in the proposed conference.

THE PRICE OF PEACE

Prospering in your shattered cage Bought by bitter jaguins of War, Ye who see this year of peace Cross the threshold of your door,

Ask yourselves the reason why Countless warriors died to die?

Ask yourselves the cost in gold. In blood, in bitterness and woe Of those dark days whose tale is told.

In burning heat and frigid snow Then pay the meed of heroes given Whose flame of glory shines to heaven.

Keep faith with those the sacred host, Who left their shattered forms to rest 'Neath distant, foreign skies and lost All you have gained that they possessed; They gave you all that they could give, And by their sacrificial death you live, And they shall live for evermore. T. B. Windsor

Meeting Wants Irrigation In This District

Will Send Committee to Ottawa
In Near Future

A meeting of the Chambers of Commerce of Medicine Hat and Redcliff was held last Tuesday evening. There was a fair number present and they were anxious to get the Federal Government and local Legislature to make arrangements for undertaking the proposed irrigation scheme in the Rosedale-Redcliff district.

The meeting decided to send a delegation to Ottawa as soon as convenient to bring the attention of the proper authorities to the idea of the feasibility of supplying water to districts where there is rich soil but insufficient rainfall. There is no doubt that if water were brought into this district it would bring about a great improvement in both the living and economic conditions of the farmers and local businessmen of this dry section of sunny Alberta.

There was a joint meeting of Council and School Board on Tuesday night for the discussion of town affairs.

The Plight Of Youth

The phenomenon of young, unemployed men in large numbers wandering aimlessly all over the country in the next two or three months after they have been looking for work and other prospects searching for jobs but hoping to avoid them, has been termed, and not without warrant, a "national plague".

There cannot but be sympathy for these youths. Many of them are offspring of thrifty, hard-working parents. Many of them are fairly well educated, some even holding university degrees. Some of them are well equipped to occupy an honored place in the business and social life of the country and have the right attitude towards work, but they find that industry does not want them, has no place in its crowded ranks where they can fit in.

On the other hand, the ranks of these idle, rootless youth include some who are more shifty than thrifty, some who prefer to shirk rather than work, and some who are outright morose and never-do-wells. Unfortunately, in the minds of a section of the general public, there is an inclination to include all of them in the latter category, and this tends to make the lot of those who are willing and eager to work and who are unable to do so through no fault of their own, harder to bear.

Unless something is done to enable these young men to find their place in the social and business life of the country, and particularly those who by upbringing, education and other factors are worthy material for citizenship, their ultimate fate is difficult to predict, beyond the general statement that it can hardly be expected to be creditable for themselves, their forebears or their country.

Action Is Needed

As stated at the outset, one cannot help but be sympathetic towards these youth and grieved at the predicament in which they find themselves, but sympathy alone is not sufficient. Sympathy must be translated into practical action if mental, moral and physical disaster is not to be the goal towards which they press. In other words, a helping hand must be extended, if not by private effort, by the governments of the country.

On the face of it the problem seems insoluble until such times as industry has sufficiently recovered from the slings and arrows of misfortune to enable it to absorb them. The only other solution, temporary or otherwise, is for the governments of the country to do something more than is now being done.

It will be argued, of course, that in the west, the federal government has made some provision to take care of these benighted youth by establishing the farm bonus plan and in providing the funds for the operation of youth training classes in the larger centres.

The former has and undoubtedly will again be of some assistance in allaying unfortunate homes but the latter, as it is only a seasonal and very temporary measure. It takes care for a few months of the year of one class of the unemployed young men and only a percentage of the total. Moreover, it does not ordinarily train for or lead in the direction of permanent employment for the great majority of the beneficiaries.

The youth training project, too, has undoubted merits. The educational opportunity it affords is excellent and unquestionably those who attend these classes and pursue their studies with diligence, thereby better equip themselves to occupy a place in industry if and when the opportunity to do so appears, but unfortunately it does not, at present, lead to self-support, the natural ambition of every right-minded youth.

Abundant Opportunity

All that youth training does, as yet, is to increase the number who are equipped to compete for the few vacancies that occur in industry at a period when trade and commerce, using the term in its broadest sense, has not emerged from the doldrums.

Until such time as industry is able to more adequately provide for the needs and ambitions of the youth of the country it would appear that the only thing for the senior governments to do is to make some provision to enable youth to give vent to its energies in the national and proper manner through work, and this can best and most profitably be done through the development of the vast natural resources in which the country abounds.

One could list a number of projects which might be undertaken, the prosecution of which would reduce moral time and physical vigour to dissipate pointed youth and at the same time yield some return to the taxpayers who would have to foot the bill. It is hardly necessary to enumerate such development possibilities. One has only to look around and see the opportunities.

There is plenty of work of a beneficial nature to be done and there are plenty to do it. Why not connect the two?

Bad Night Around

"James," said the teacher, "come in front of the class and spell 'night'!" "No," he said, "I don't want to."

"That's quite right, James!" said the teacher. "Now, Tommy, it's your turn. Please tell me what a night is."

"After a pause, 'Please, miss,' said Tommy, 'a neighbor is a woman who borrows things.'"

Campaign For Conscription

Preparations In Britain To Be Ready In Event Of War

Sir Auckland Geddis, war-time minister of national service, appeared for the re-establishment of a government office similar to the one he headed during the Great War, to ensure mobilization of the population for a total war within a few months after the outbreak of a new conflict.

In a letter to The Times, Sir Auckland Geddis, minister of national service, stated that the government was preparing a questionnaire to all British voters to determine their reaction to his proposal, which received the editorial support of The Times.

Viscount Rothermere's Daily Mail intensified its efforts to obtain replies from its readers to a questionnaire asking: "Are you in favor of obligatory military service or organization of a volunteer service?"

Lord Beaverbrook's Daily Express also continued its campaign for conscription of the nation's economic and man-power resources, citing the statement of Frank Pick, president of the British exchange one of the world's greatest grain markets—in favor of conscription of man for the army and also for industrial and commercial enterprises.

Mr. Fehr said officials of the British exchange were in a position to make an entire organization placed at the disposal of the government.

Something New In Food

Ginger Bread With Buttermilk Held To Be Fine Combination

The columnist of the Baltimore Sun, writes one of his contemporaries, the other day remarked he had found what he called a unusual food combination recently—buttermilk and ginger bread.

"That is a food combination the origin of which would be hard to determine," says the columnist, "but I know it was a very popular combination constantly indulged in on the eastern shore of Maryland from time immemorial. The habit of eating ginger bread drifted down from Pennsylvania, for in every low Pennsylvania home it is considered one of the best of food combinations there ever was."

"Oul in (Carroll county) no farmer's wife would think of offering you buttermilk without a slice of ginger bread with it—and if ever there was a combination that could charm away the terrors of a hot day it is a glass of buttermilk right cold out of the springhouse and a hunk of ginger bread made by the recipe that descended to Maryland housewives from the angels. Try it some time on a hot day after a long, tiring day."

"Then let's have your native name," persisted the officer.

"Ah Choo it is," replied the other.

Hermit Cell

Site Of Historic Cell Is Found In Westminster Abbey

The site of the cell of the famous hermit of Westminster, credited with an important role in the history of the early Tudor kings, was believed discovered in Westminster Abbey.

Lawrence E. Tanner, keeper of the Minims and Library of the Abbey, disclosed that during a recent cleaning he found a window and a door near the Poet's Corner of the Abbey.

The door had been locked for an unknown number of years, but Tanner concluded from old records that it led outside to a cell in which an early monk or holy man lived in retirement. No trace of the cell remains.

Tanner said Henry V, probably passed through that door the night his father, Henry IV, died, March 20, 1413, and may have spent the night there with the hermit, who was given credit for reforming the young king.

"According to the Shakespearean story, Henry V was a wild young man before his accession, the companion of Falstaff, and other lecherous characters. After his father's death he became one of England's ablest kings."

Prison With A History

The Tomb On Manhattan Island Is Offered For Sale

Manhattan Island's saddest spot—the place where criminals have been punished for 300 years—is for sale. The city announced that the prison called The Tomb and the criminal courts building—both atrocious specimens of architecture—and the land on which they stand are for sale.

The price will be $1,500,000. The ground on which the buildings stand once was the jail site placed on the island when Hendrick Hudson came in 1609 the spot was covered by a beautiful pond, fringed with willow trees.

The Dutch, the English used the spot as a winter station for the young Duke of Clarence, who later was to be King William IV.

But the pond saw more than happy faces. On the shore the Dutch set a gibbet. The English, too, used the spot for hangings. Americans, in the 19th century, presided by hanging the pond and building a prison. Because of its Egyptian-style architecture, the public called it The Tomb.

Another Silk Substitute

New Textile Fibre Is Said To Be Actually Run-Proof

Japan is having trouble selling enough goods abroad to finance her imports of munitions for war and for necessities. Now her best supplier besides the United States is China, which is silk.

From the laboratories of the main rayon manufacturer in the United States there is news of perfecting of a revolutionary textile fibre. It is declared to be entirely different from rayon or anything else now on the market, and is strong and elastic that really run-proof stockings will presently be an actuality.

Thus the new fibre may replace raw silk in its own great remaining market, hosiery.—Brendon Sun.

Outspeeds Hawtrey Shell

Eyston Battles His Record Of Value To One Despatching

Captain George R. Eyston, who set the record of 387.5 miles an hour in his seven-ton automobile Thunderbolt, told some 200 members of the Downton Athletic Club in New York that travelling faster than the shell of a fast bomber.

Introduced by Captain R. V. Hickman, chairman of the contest board of the American Automobile Association, which timed Captain Eyston's run on the Bonneville Salt Flats in Utah, and president of Eastern Air Lines, the British speed driver said that he believed record-breaking in speeded machines was of great value to the advancement of general automobile design from the points of view both of safety and efficiency.

"Three able to withstand six miles a minute," he said, "prove that time can be built which will not blow out at ordinary road speeds. Finer steel and light aluminum alloys and the precise workmanship which go into the construction of such a machine as the Thunderbolt with its 4,000 horsepower inevitably mean advances in the motor car intended for the average driver."

After describing how his machine was built, by being pushed by a truck just to get the huge engine turning over, and how the change was made from second gear to top gear, he said he had made 200 miles an hour. Captain Eyston said that when the machine attained its top velocity the eight 40-inch wheels were revolving forty-five times a second. Speed reached, he added, 300 feet a second.

"It is the run," he said, "that counts. I had to be a hawtrey shell."

Oil On Ocean Bed

Canadian Coal Seekers Have Found Oil Further

What is believed to be the first submarine oil bed in the world has been found in Inverness, Nova Scotia.

A diamond crew working now on seams in a government-owned colliery came across flowing oil a mile from the surface and 2,500 feet vertically below the sea surface. The crew had penetrated 232 feet horizontally in a coal mine and 2,500 feet vertically below the sea surface. The crew had penetrated 232 feet horizontally in a coal mine and 2,500 feet vertically below the sea surface.

Confirming the find, Dr. Alan Cameron, provincial deputy minister of mines, said:

"We're going to carry the drill hole on further. According to the geologist and engineer there are definite shows of oil. If it is petroleum, it will be good to get it."

To Meet Emergencies

Proposal For British Test Mobilization To Be Held Annually

A plan for an annual test mobilization of British's civilian population to meet any emergency of the future has been placed before the committee of Imperial Defence by Calgary-born Brig.-Gen. A. C. Cuthbert.

The scheme is based on precautionary measures evolved by the committee promoter 18 months ago and applied to his visit enterprises during the recent crisis.

At that time a large number of his employees were promptly released for duties with the Territorial, the balloon barrage, and the air raid precautions organization, but pre-arranged programs were carried out without a hitch by the immediate introduction of a shadow plan.

General Cuthbert now proposed that the civilian population should similarly be organized and called up for a test drill next summer. He suggests a trial concentration of congested areas, the manning of all branches of the defence service, and mobilization on the basis of a national register with a minimum of disturbance in industry.

Poultry For British Guiana

R.C. Poultry Breeders Supply Foundation Stock At Good Prices

No satisfactory hatch of records-of-performance poultry from British Guiana made last year proven to be that the Department of Agriculture of that country recently placed another order through the Dominion Department of Agriculture. This latest order is for eight white leghorn pullets and two males and eight Rhode Island Red pullets and two males, all of record-of-performance breeding stock. The birds are now en route to British Guiana. The shipment consists of birds from two British Columbia poultry breeders. The satisfactory price of $15 each was paid for the pullets and $25 each for the males, and the breeders' farms. These birds, like last year's shipment of Barred Plymouth Rocks, are to be used for foundation breeding stock in British Guiana, where poultry raising is becoming an increasingly important industry.

Near The Polar Sea

In the frozen areas of Grand Land, facing the Polar sea, scientists have discovered 75 kinds of plants, five species of butterflies, and two species of bumblebees. Grand Land has an average summer temperature of 34 degrees above zero and an average winter temperature of 36 degrees below.

For Healing Wounds

New Oxygen Treatment Is Shown American College Of Surgeons

Oxygen loosely locked up in grains of white powder was reported as a new treatment for healing wounds rapidly.

The process was shown to the American College of Surgeons at a clinic at Presbyterian Hospital by Dr. Frank J. Mooney.

Oxygen, it was explained, is supposed to owe its healing power in wounds to its ability to drive out the kind of bacteria which live without oxygen. They are known as "anaerobes" and include some of the serious sources of infection.

The obstacle to using oxygen has been its quick evaporation from the wound. The powder is a new product of chemistry, solid peroxide.

It is dissolved in liquid and flushed through a wound. The heavy zinc particles spread through the injured tissues and lodge there. Each grain of the zinc thereupon becomes a slow fountain of oxygen. It keeps on giving off oxygen for several hours.

Books as part of the cure after an operation were urged by Dr. J. H. Kamman, M.D., of the University of Minnesota.

The right books, he said, will help in recovery, and the wrong ones will make the patient worse.

"Too few people," he said, "are aware of the possibilities of reading in the treatment of medical, surgical and psychomotoric patients. The individual must be regarded as a whole and we no longer cling to the dualistic concept of men in which the mind is considered separately from the body."

"To allow outsiders to supply patients with reading material unpurposed is as bad as allowing them to bring the patient his diet or medicine."

The right books, Dr. Kamman described as those which take the patient's mind off himself. The "so-called tired business man," he said, is a tough subject for books because as a rule this man has been so busy making money he never has time for reading and is not interested.

A Suggestion Made

A Little Discussion Over The Royal Visit To Toronto

Neither Toronto nor any other city is entitled to a royal presentation party in a three-week visit of the King and Queen to Canada. It goes without saying that the Toronto people will be proud and delighted to have the royal visitors as guests for as long as it is convenient for them. They say, but when a communication to that effect has been forwarded to those in charge of the Canadian visit, that is the end of the matter. Toronto's opportunity should go.

The suggestion which has emanated from the Board of Control that Mayor Day should write to Lord Tweedmouth stressing Toronto's claim to a prominent place in the royal plans is the type of thing which has earned for this city the opprobrium of Hogtown. Without any thought as to the national character of the visit, it is proposed that a letter in this sense should be forwarded to Ottawa. That is a lengthy visit to this city which definitely form part of Their Majesties' Canadian itinerary.—Toronto Telegram.

Have Come Important

Shins Of Male And Mice Are Of Value To Japan

Rats and mice are ordinarily thought of in Japan, as elsewhere, as unmitigated pests.

But in the present period, when substitute materials are being sought on every side, they have been included in the general scheme of "commodity mobilization."

Their skins, it is asserted, can be tanned and used as material for knapsacked brief cases, vests, linings of coats and other articles which are usually made out of more valuable materials.

The market for dead cats and dogs is rising, as is the same reason, the value of their skins.

The prices of the various animals are reported as follows: Five for a dog, one yen for a cat, ten sen for a rat, and five sen for a mouse.—London Chronicle.

Very Friendly

The British battle cruiser Hood and the German pocket battleship Deutschland exchanged friendly greetings recently as they left the harbor at Gibraltar. The Hood had played "Deutschland über Alles" when leaving for Marseilles. The Deutschland, bound for the east, responded with "Gott Save the King."

Modern Travel Speedy

In Three Hours, Car Accomplishes 18-Day Canoe Trip

Difference between modern travel and traffic a century ago was driven home to three boatmen at Winnipeg recently.

Harry Bushel, his 14-year-old son, Andy, and Murray Peden started out by canoe on the Assiniboine river from Brandon to paddle to Winnipeg. This 150-mile trip ordinarily is made in about three hours by automobile but it took the paddlers 18 days to complete the voyage.

They estimated the winding river route is 600 miles in length and their one desire near the journey's end was to beach the canoe, climb into their ancient clothing and head for the nearest movie.

The trip was made in a 16-foot canoe and they carried 600 pounds of equipment. Actual time on the water was about seven hours a day for 13 days. The rest of the time was spent on stop-overs.

There were many rocks and rapids along the way, Bushel said, and the going was "tough" during the first four days. Nights were spent along the river bank in a tent. They started out about six o'clock each morning.

There were no spillover, Bushel said, although once the rapids slowed the boats around and they shot the river backwards.

New Surgical Tools

Advances In Electricity Aid A Great Aid To Surgery

New surgical tools, which give their own light like a flashlight or glow, were exhibited to the American College of Surgeons.

One called a degreaser, could be substituted for the spoon which grandmothers used to hold down a child's tongue while looking for a sore throat.

Of clear, glassy material, solid and sturdy of inch thick, this new tool would glow all over with a green, yellow light. But its lower tip, in the throat, would show up with brilliant light to illuminate the entire throat.

These tools are made of a new question material which is as clear as glass. But it has the peculiar property that light will follow its lines around a curve.

Great advances in electricity as an aid to surgery were exhibited. One is the radio knife, an instrument which will make an incision half an inch deep merely by raising the edge of the knife on the skin.

Another, about 100 metres long, produces this cut by vaporizing the water in the tissue cells until they explode and come vomiting out. It is as a razor blade, with just enough heating along its edge to prevent more than slight bleeding.

These new devices were shown that the radio incision can be used to advantage in many special operations, in the brain, chest, eyes and glands. It was declared to be an easier method of sterilizing wounds.

U.S. Defences

Mass Production Of War Equipment Is Indicated

President Roosevelt said he was making an entirely new study of the United States national defence, and that until it was completed he could not estimate next year's budget.

The president told a press conference new technical developments in national defence measures required a complete study of defensive requirements.

He said the reason for the re-examination of these needs began to take shape about a year ago because of information coming in in connection with world events. He said the question was forced to a head in the past month. In response to a question he said the new information was of a technical rather than a political nature.

One of the things being studied, he said, was that of mass production of war equipment, including airplanes, power and other items. He said the production question was something new and indicated one phase to be studied was standardization of "plane production, which some countries already have adopted."

Trains And Planes

For Many People Locomotive Will Never Lose Its Glamour

The other day, says B. H. B. in the Victoria Times, I kept abreast of a heavy grain train, down the Fraser Canyon for miles and miles, so close that I could see the tobacco glow in the bowl of the engineer's pipe, and I found that I wished then, as so often as when I was seven years old, that I was a locomotive engineer, with a glass of steam under me. In times, I dare say, the airplane may acquire a glamour like that, but not for many years. We may use it but we shall never love it as we love a train. An airplane is a new thing, an upstart. A train was our friend in boyhood, and the sound of its whistle will always remain in our hearts.

The Last Word

Newspaper Writer Shipped Something Over The Publisher

Christopher Morley, late American author, at one time conducted a column on the Philadelphia Public Ledger, then owned by the late Cyrus H. K. Curtis, also publisher of the Saturday Evening Post.

Curtis was picked at something like Morley wrote and said, as he noticed. In the last column he was to publish in the Ledger, Morley inserted an apparently meaningless line: "Taming of the Shrew, Act IV, Scene I, Line 36."

Readers, curious when they looked up the reference, for it read: "A cold world, Curtis, in every office but mine; and therefore fire!"—Winnipeg Tribune.

Amusing For Tourists

Over Bargainers In Mexican Market Provide Plenty Of Comedy

Mexico knows how to please both its own people and travellers, according to the American Express Travel Agency. Perhaps the most interesting evidence of this is the Toluca market, which the tour parties visit on Friday, its great day. The market is divided into two more or less distinct parts. One supplies the needs of the Indians by specializing in cheap dress goods, shoes, socks, knick-knacks, jewelry, toys; its merchandise is piled on the sidewalks, with cotton wadding rigged up to protect seller and buyer from the sun.

Low prices are its keynote. Its merchandise attracts even advertising their wares by calling out, "Cheap!"

The other half of the market appeals to visitors. Its merchandise consists of hand-woven baskets, of native serapes and embroidered goods. Bargaining is its one and only rule. If the seller gets the first price he asks, he is more than surprised, even though he may not show it. He has to hicker and argue for half an hour with a customer, he accepts such a good as an inevitable part of his business.

A tacit bargain is looked up to by the merchants of the Toluca market. If he expects to go to the bargaining, he may draw a large admiring audience, which listens with interest to each of his sales and attempts to lower prices.

Toluca's main prices are six sizes of hand-woven Indian linen ties. The buyers are represented by the artistic nature of the weaver, made in his own design. Sometimes, however, the same family works on the same article, each contributing his own ideas of color and style.

Heavy Investment

Large Sum Of United States Money Invested In Canada

United States investments in Canada amount to $3,620,000,000—more than one-third of the total United States investment in foreign lands, and by the largest block of the total, according to a survey by the United States Chamber of Commerce.

The complete statistics for 1937 show that in addition to the United States investment, United States investors had placed $2,567,000,000 in South America, $2,373,000,000 in Europe and more than $900,000,000 in the West Indies.

The survey also disclosed that expenditures of Canadian travellers in the United States account for one-third of the total travel outlays by foreigners in the United States, while United States travellers in Canada spend here half of the total travel outlay of the United States.

Tooth Decay

Physicians Claim To Have Isolated Germ That Causes Trouble

Isolation of the germ that causes tooth decay was reported by Dr. H. H. Belding, dentist, and his brother, Lieut. L. J. Belding, physician attached to the naval academy at Annapolis.

The germ is nurtured, they said, in foods made from cereals, mostly wheat and oats. The fermentation of these foods causes acid in the saliva which attacks the tooth enamel. The germ can be eliminated by procuring the cereal, they said.

They made their report to the First Dental Society of the State of New York.

They believed that their discovery might open the way for a new study of the dietary diseases, such as psoriasis, ulcer, gall stones, arthritis, appendicitis, pernicious anemia and diabetes.

One way of destroying the germ, they said, was by fermentation or oxidation of the cereal before consumption.

Ontario To Spend Ten Million Dollars On Roads In Next Five Years

R. M. Smith, Ontario Deputy Minister of Highways, announced that during the next five years 283 miles of road from Sudbury to Sault Ste. Marie would be paved at a cost of $10,000,000.

Mr. Smith was reviewing road construction projects between North Bay and Sault Ste. Marie with Hon. T. B. McQueen, Ontario Minister of Highways, and A. A. Smith, chief engineer of the Highways Department.

"With the exception of three miles between Vernon and Kamloops, B.C., grading has been completed between North Bay and Sudbury," James Cooper, M.L.A., Sudbury, who accompanied the party, said.

One roadwork contract was awarded for $250,000 this year, Cooper added. Another was for $100,000 and there were various smaller contracts throughout the district.

Engines Of War

Best Way To Combat Air Raids Is To Be Inventive In The Air

A Great War veteran who has scrutinized the "terrible engines of war" finds them neither as fearsome nor as awe-inspiring as one might expect.

Col. E. C. Schmidt, director of engineering services department of national defence, told members of the Engineering Institute of Canada at Toronto that in spite of advances in design and the power of modern military weapons, conditions in any future war would be no worse than those of the present.

Each advance in weapons of offense, he said, has been offset by corresponding improvements in defensive armaments.

Best defence against air raids, he declared, was to meet the invaders in the defence they reached their objective. A fleet of fast pursuit ships could cope successfully with the attacking fleet of submarines.

If this method had been followed in the Spanish war he doubted if the insurgent armies would have caused the damage they did.

YOU NEED TWO NEWSPAPERS

You enjoy your weekly. It gives you news of your own friends and neighbors. It deals intimately with the problems of your own district and works assiduously for its welfare.
As your home newspaper it has first claim on your interest and your loyalty—and rightly so.

But while your weekly gives you a resume of the news beyond your own district and, within its scope, deals capably with world events, it cannot possibly keep you in touch with every matter of importance. Frankly it makes no claims to do so.

To have an intelligent appreciation of what is happening in the world today you must read a daily newspaper. A good daily gives you all the news. No matter what your chief interest may be, world events, national conditions, sports or markets, it covers them all. And more than news.
Special articles, features of particular interest to women and pages for the children make a daily newspaper welcome in every home.

By all means read your weekly. It deserves your interest and support. But remember, you and your family need a daily newspaper, too.
